GENERAL

Pax Christi International Regional Workshop for the Middle East

Pax Christi International is planning a regional workshop for the Middle East in Amman, Jordan, from 12 – 14 December 2012. The theme of the workshop is “Deepening Partnerships for Peace in the Middle East in the Context of the Arab Spring.” The workshop will discuss the best practices and lessons learned from the Spring Revolutions and reflect on Living our Differences: Confronting Violence and Diversity. A session on international advocacy and strengthening the network in the region is also part of the agenda. On 12 December, participants will visit refugees from Syria and Iraq and meet with leaders from different religions and churches. Participants are from Jordan, Palestine, Lebanon, Syria, Egypt, Iraq, Netherlands, Germany, Austria, United Kingdom, Belgium, Italy, Croatia, USA and India. On 15 – 16 December, Marie Dennis, Co-President, and José Henriquez, Secretary General will travel to Jerusalem to meet with H.B. Michel Sabbah, former President of Pax Christi International, and Israeli peace and human rights activists. ■

AFRICA

Pax Christi International Peace Award to Archbishop John Onaiyekan

Pax Christi International awarded His Grace, Archbishop Dr John Onaiyekan with its Annual Peace Award for his efforts in promoting understanding between people of different faiths through dialogue in Africa, especially in Nigeria. The Award Ceremony took place in Mechelen, Belgium on 31 October 2012.

The acceptance speech of Archbishop John Onaiyekan is available in English and Dutch. The introductory speech given by Marie Dennis can be seen here, and the speech given by Bishop Kevin Dowling can be read in English and German. There is also a press release available in English, French, and German. The Nigerian Press can be read Nigerian Press and the Vatican Press. ■

The European Network for Central Africa \(EurAc\) Calls on the EU to Put Pressure on Rwanda and Uganda to Stop Support of the M23 Rebels

The European Network for Central Africa (EurAc) and its member organisations including Pax Christi International, welcomed the European Union's condemnation, after the meeting of the Foreign Affairs Council on 19 November 2012, of the M23 rebel group and other rebel groups responsible for the serious deterioration of the security situation in North Kivu. The EU expressed its desire to support the creation of both an African Union Special Envoy and a United Nations Special Representative, with the latter having to facilitate regional dialogue. The statement issued by EurAc is available in English and French. ■

AMERICAS AND CARIBBEAN

The Danger of Drones and Remote Control Warfare

On 16 November 2012, Pax Christi USA members gathered for the annual School of the Americas Vigil and Action in Columbus. The programme included prayer, music, inspiring speakers and more. The event was open to the general public and was entitled: The Danger of Drones and Remote Control Warfare.

The CIA and U.S. armed forces have used drones – unmanned aerial devices – for surveillance, bombings, and assassinations in Pakistan and in the war in Afghanistan. These devices perform combat missions in these countries while being flown by those who are far removed from the realities on the ground. The drone attacks have devastating consequences for the citizens of Afghanistan and Pakistan. Although exact figures on casualties are impossible due to the secrecy of the programme, the strikes have dramatically increased since President Obama took office. Estimates are that for every militant target killed, 10 innocent people have died. These deaths are having an adverse effect: rather than making people feel more secure, they fuel anti-American sentiments and help recruiters of terrorist groups. ■

News from Justice and Peace Commission in Haiti

The Commission Episcopale Nationale Justice et Paix, a Member Organisation of Pax Christi International in Haiti, published its report about violence in the metropolitan zone of the capital, Port au Prince. This is their 44th report on this subject and covers the period of July through September 2012. For more information, the document can be read in French. ■

ASIA - PACIFIC

Letter of Concern on West Papua

On 30 October 2012, the President of Pax Christi Australia, Claude Mostowik, sent a letter of concern regarding the on-going repression and oppression of the West Papuan by the Indonesian military forces, some who have been trained in Australia. Pax Christi Australia is also concerned with the apparent silence on this serious issue. The letter can be read here. ■

Spirit of Justice, Compassion and Fraternal Love in Thailand

The Justice and Peace Commission in Thailand issued a Pastoral Message on Human Rights Day. The third Sunday of November is dedicated as the Human Rights Day of the Church in Thailand. This year the focus was on the three essential spirits of Christian living: justice, compassion, and fraternal love. They hope to inspire others to reflect on these three spirits along with the social teachings of the Church and see their application in daily life. Read the entire message. ■

Exchange of Views on Human Rights in Pakistan

An exchange of views on human rights in Pakistan was organised by the European Parliament and occurred in Brussels on 28 November 2012. Peter Jacob of the National Commission for Justice and Peace, a Member Organisation of Pax Christi International, spoke on religious rights issues and religious freedom. ■

Letter to the Mission of India to the UN in Support of Palestinian UN Membership

Fr. Charles Irudayam of the National Commission for Justice, Peace and Development of India, a Member Organisation of Pax Christi International, wrote a letter to the Ambassador of the Mission of India to the United Nations expressing happiness after learning of the Missions' support of diplomacy and dialogue as the only viable road to resolution in Israel and Palestine. The Mission is also in support of Palestine gaining recognition by the UN. The complete letter is available here. ■

MIDDLE EAST

Christian Development and Peace Groups Call on Europe to Act Urgently Against Escalation of Gaza Violence

Three international Christian development and peace groups called on the EU and its Member States to use their influence for a ceasefire in Gaza and Southern Israel, where escalating violence was once again putting civilians at risk. Four years after "Operation Cast Lead," Israel engaged in a new military operation against Gaza, following the Israeli air force's assassination of a Hamas leader and the firing of rockets into southern Israel by Gaza militants. The APRODEV network of development organisations related to the World Council of Churches, the CIDSE alliance of Catholic development agencies, and Pax Christi International, issued a joint press release on 19 November 2012, which is available in English and German. ■

Stop the Killings!

Several Member Organisations of Pax Christi International expressed their concern about the on-going violence in Gaza and the South of Israel. On 15 November 2012, Wiltrud Rösch-Metzler, Vice President of Pax Christi Germany was interviewed on Radio Vaticana. More information the interview can be found here. The Arab Educational Institute also issued a statement on 19 November 2012 which can be found on their website. ■

EAPPI's 10th Anniversary

To 10th anniversary of the Ecumenical Accompaniment Programme in Palestine & Israel (EAPPI) was celebrated with an ecumenical service followed by a photo exhibition. In the last 10-years, the EAPPI brought 1000 Ecumenical Accompaniers from 25 countries to support Palestinians and Israelis working for justice and peace. Pax Christi International assisted in the creation of EAPPI in 2002 and several individuals from Pax Christi Member Organisations participated in the programme. The event was held in Jerusalem on 3 November 2012. José Henriquez, Secretary General, sent a letter of congratulations and solidarity. ■

Christian Community Leaders Urge EU to Support Palestinian UN Membership

100 Christian community leaders in Palestine issued a statement declaring the Israeli occupation of Palestine a sin against God and humanity. They believe that ending Israeli occupation is the “only way for Palestinians, Christians, and Muslim to enjoy a life of prosperity and progress.” The Christian community leaders believe that the Palestine Liberation Organisation's initiative to promote Palestine to an Observer State in the UN will get Palestine one step closer to freedom from Israeli occupation. H.B. Michel Sabbah, former President of Pax Christi International, signed the statement. Please read the full statement in English. ■

Pax Christi International calls for more effective action against settlements

Since 1967, Israel has occupied Palestinian territories and has committed gross violations of human rights and humanitarian law. Pax Christi International supports the call of the United Nations Special Rapporteur Richard Falk for a boycott of Israeli settlement products, as well as of international businesses that profit from settlements on Palestinian lands, until the enterprises bring their operations up to par with international human rights standards and humanitarian law. The press release can be read in English and German. ■

Letter to Congress on US Military Aid to Israel from Maryknoll

In a recent letter to Congress, Kathy McNeely of the Maryknoll Office for Global Concerns, a Member organisation of Pax Christi International, urged the U.S. to investigate possible human rights and weapons violations by the government of Israel. The letter is available on their website. ■

Call for Palestinian Support from Pax Christi Australia

Since 1967, Israel has Pax Christi Australia sent a letter to Australian Senator Bob Carr to share its concern about the unequivocal support given to Israel by the Australian government. Pax Christi Australia calls for the government to condemn the recent Israeli actions against Palestinians in Gaza. They are concerned that the government is giving Australians the impression that Israel is the innocent victim of Hamas' rockets, when in reality the attack was sparked by the assassination of Ahmed al Jabari. The full letter is available here.

Statement by Christian and Church Leaders on the Situation in Gaza

The National Coalition of Christian Organisations in Palestine issued a statement on the situation in Gaza on the 19th of November. The statement appeals to those supportive of peace to work with their governments and citizens to stop the destruction in Gaza.

The statement also shares the belief that the cause of the violence is the continuing Israeli occupation and the restrictions imposed by the Israeli authorities in the Gaza Strip. Among the signatories are H.B. Michel Sabbah, former President of Pax Christi International, and the Arab Educational Institute, a Member Organization of Pax Christi International in Palestine. The entire statement is available in English. ■

Response to Pax Christi International on Syria from UN Secretary General, Ban Ki-moon

Last month, Pax Christi International sent a letter to the Secretary General of the UN, Ban Ki-moon, rejecting violence within Syria and reiterating the importance of dialogue in peace processes. In a letter of response addressed to the Co-Presidents and Secretary General of Pax Christi International, His Excellency Ban Ki-moon highlighted the plight of civilians in Syria and mentioned the urgent need to find a political solution to this crisis. The response can be read here. ■

Syria Forms a National Coalition of Opposition Forces

On 10 November 2012, the various factions within the opposition in Syria formed the Syrian National Coalition for the Forces of the Opposition and the Revolution. In a statement, IKV Pax Christi said this was a crucial step towards unification of the rebel forces and is what foreign powers have been waiting for. It is of the utmost importance that this coalition gains the respect and recognition of the international community. The EU, and other powers, can no longer take issue with the divisions within the Syrian revolution. There is now hope and security for the Syrian people. Read the full statement in Syria Alert Issue IX. ■

How to Protect Civilians in Syria?

On 5 December 2012, the European Union office of the Heinrich-Böll-Stiftung together with IKV Pax Christi Netherlands organised a closed workshop titled "The Responsibility to Protect in Syria - What Can the European Union Do?" Invitees included representatives from the European Union Action Service, the European parliament, as well as NGOs and think tanks who deal with the issue. Members of the Syrian opposition were also invited to speak. Policy recommendations were formulated at this workshop. ■

EUROPE

Between Eagles and Stars: on Identity in Kosovo

IKV Pax Christi Netherlands held a "BalkanBorrel," organized in cooperation with Our Future Network and with the Dutch United Nations Student Association that took place on 29 November 2012 in Utrecht. Participants elaborated on the question of identity in Kosovo. How should policy-makers and peace-builders deal with the ethnic question? A lecture has been given by Mr. Hajrulla Ceku, professor of political science at Universum College in Pristina. More information is available via email.

EU External Action: Longer-Term Scenarios and Opportunities for Reform

EPLO, the European Peace Building Network of which Pax Christi International is a member, held a roundtable on the EU and External Action on 23 November 2012. This provided the platform for stakeholders, including civil society, the Peace building community, EU officials from the EEAS, academics, and representatives of Member States, to discuss the future of EU external action, Joint Communication on the Comprehensive Approach, longer-term scenarios, and recommendations for reform. Astrid Schrama of IKV Pax Christi and Fr. Paul Lansu of the International Secretariat attended this event. ■

DISARMAMENT / DEMILITARISATION

First Committee UN General Assembly

Pax Christi International co-signed several statements of NGOs and civil society before the First Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations which took place at the end of October 2012. The statements were on: Disarmament Machinery, Preventing a Humanitarian Catastrophe, and Outer Space Security. Pax Christi International was well represented at the First Committee with delegates from Ireland, the Netherlands, and New York. ■

Preventing a Humanitarian Catastrophe

Since the first nuclear bombing during World War II in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the effects of nuclear weapons on societies have been clear. We are constantly reminded that nuclear abolition is of the utmost importance in order to guarantee a guaranteed human existence. Outlawing these weapons is the only insurance against their use. You can view the entire here.

Disarmament Machinery

Both civil society and governments alike have warned that using a strict interpretation of the UN's consensus rule has damaged disarmament machinery within the UN. The rule of consensus at the United Nations tends to act more as a barrier to commitment than a catalyst of development. Read the full statement, along with resolutions here. ■

Outer Space Security

Outer space has become increasingly of interest to nations around the world. There are numerous governance challenges that have emerged since the adoption of the 1967 Outer Space Treaty. Currently, there are approximately one thousand satellites in space that are providing social, scientific, and economic benefits to people across the globe. It is important to simultaneously address the issue of preventing an arms race in outer space. Read more about outer space security in the full statement. ■

Breaking the Nuclear Chain: From Victim to Actor

On 22 October 2012, IKV Pax Christi Netherlands joined the Global Partnership for Armed Conflict and Peace Boat in New York to launch "Breaking the Nuclear Chain," a new global campaign to prevent the looming humanitarian catastrophe stimulated by the nuclear chain. Nearly 100 representatives from embassies, United Nations agencies, and non-governmental organizations attended the event to learn more about the potential humanitarian disaster of the nuclear chain – from uranium mining, to power, to weapons, to nuclear waste – and what they can do to help prevent it. The campaign collects and shares the experiences of people who have been affected by the nuclear chain, and highlights how they are working to break it. The campaign also organized an online webinar with experts from around the world which you can download from the website. ■

Pre-Assembly Nuclear Advocacy Consultation

The WCC is organizing a consultation to inform and guide international nuclear advocacy and engagement with national and regional partners. Kevin McBride, Board member of Pax Christi International, will participate at the consultation taking place from 10–12 December 2012 in Seoul, South Korea. The consultation is being held in preparation for the World Council of Churches Assembly that is to be held in Busan, South Korea in November of next year. ■

Interfaith Network on Nuclear Disarmament in Japan

During the second week of December 2012, Sr. Filo Hirota, member of the Board of Pax Christi International, will be part of the International Conference on "nuclear disarmament" in Japan organized by the interfaith peace network. Nick Mele from Pax Christi USA will also attend the event. As colleagues in Japan continue renewing their commitment to a world without nuclear weapons, their commitment now includes the abolition of Nuclear power plants in a more conscious manner. ■

London School Students at Downing Street to Plea for a Nuclear Weapon Free World

A group of students from Maria Fidelis School in London wore colourful paper cranes, a symbol of peace and good health in Japan, and delivered a letter to David Cameron, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, urging him to abolish nuclear weapons. This action was organised by the International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons (ICAN) and Pax Christi UK. It was part of an international project initiated by young people in Hiroshima, Japan. More information is available here. ■

ATT Final Conference March 2012

At the UN First Committee, Member States passed resolution L11 on the Arms Trade Treaty. This means that there will be another round of negotiations from 18–28 March 2013. Pax Christi International will continue to advocate in favour of an ATT together with the Ecumenical ATT Working Group and Control Arms. ■

Statement of Pax Christi International on Drones

The increased use of Remotely Piloted Air Systems (RPAs) – also called unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) or drones - has inaugurated a new phase in modern warfare and is raising grave moral and legal questions that deserve immediate attention. Pax Christi International has given serious consideration to different perspectives on this issue and is persuaded that the use of these armed unmanned vehicles as weapons should be prohibited. Read the full statement here.

HUMAN RIGHTS

Forum on Business and Human Rights

The Human Rights Council is planning a Forum on Business and Human Rights in Geneva from 4–5 December 2012 open to NGOs. The main focus is to discuss trends and challenges in the implementation of Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights of the UN “Protect, Respect and Remedy Framework.” Pax Christi International is represented by Secretary General José Henriquez, Michel Uiterwaal, and Egbert Wesselink of IKV Pax Christi. ■

Human Rights Day on Inclusion and Participation in Public Life

Human Rights Day, which will be celebrated on December 10, is the time to organise, celebrate, and recognise the importance of this day. The focus of this year is on inclusion and the right to participate in public life. The UN High Commissioner for Human Rights has released materials to be used by Member Organisations of Pax Christi International. Further information can be found here. ■

Human Rights Day: 10 December 2012

Pax Christi USA issued an article on human rights in support of Human Rights Day. This article stresses the importance of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, while drawing attention to the fact that, although it is signed by every country, it is not truly implemented across the world. The article also notes the impact that the Human Rights Council, which was formed in 2006, can have on the global implementation of human rights. Also included in the article are a prayer for human rights, a prayer to ban torture, and a prayer to end violence against women. You can read the whole article here. ■

Rights of Indigenous Children

Mary McDonald and Patrick Ryan, delegates of Pax Christi International at the UN in New York, attended the briefing "Fulfilling the Rights of Indigenous Children: Successes and Challenges" that took place on 15 November 2012. The briefing was organized by the DPI NGO. This briefing highlighted the situation of indigenous children; what steps have been taken to address their needs; the challenges that remain; and the bold actions that still must be taken to ensure their fundamental human rights and freedoms, as well as that equality under the law is recognized and respected. ■

HUMAN SECURITY

Intervention on Mining and Extractive Industries at the UN Commission for Social Development

Pax Christi International endorsed a statement to be submitted before the UN Commission for Social Development taking place from 6–15 February 2013. The statement is a follow-up to the World Summit for Social Development and the 25th session of the General Assembly - priority theme: Promoting empowerment of people in achieving poverty eradication, social integration and full employment and decent work for all. This intervention is focused on mining and extractive industries. Read the full statement. ■

Intervention on Poverty and Climate Change at the UN Commission for Social Development

Pax Christi International endorsed a statement to be submitted before the UN Commission for Social Development taking place from 6–15 February 2013. The focus is on poverty and climate change. The majority of the adverse effects of climate change will disproportionately impact those living in poverty throughout the world. Their increased vulnerability due to poor infrastructure and little or no funding for adaptation or mitigation will lead to greater hunger, disease and malnutrition. Climate change will negate the gains made through the Millennium Development Goals and inhibit the empowerment of people in achieving poverty eradication, social integration and full employment and decent work for all. The statement is available here. ■

Economic Crisis and Investment in Armaments

Pax Christi Flanders and IKV Pax Christi Netherlands have been involved in a workshop on the “Economic Crisis and Investments in Armaments” that took place in Brussels on 17 November 2012. Given the financial crisis in western countries, budgetary cuts take place in the field of development aid and health security, but not that much in the budget of defence. The main speaker at the workshop was Jennifer Brauner, Researcher at the SIPRI Military Expenditure Project. ■

NON VIOLENT SOCIAL CHANGE

Interview with Marie Dennis in Belfast on Peace and Pax Christi International

An interview with Marie Dennis, Co-President of Pax Christi International, has been published in Nonviolent News, which is the Irish Nonviolence and campaigning newsletter of INNATE, based in Belfast. The interview can be read here. ■

PEACE EDUCATION

Pax Christi Youth Camp in Italy

Pax Christi Italy is organizing a summer camp from the 3rd to 8th August 2013 for youth aged 18-30 years old in the city of Vicenza, home to one of the largest US military bases in Europe. The participants will be introduced to the “Popular Movement of Non-Violent Resistance” of Vicenza city and with the Pax Christi Italy. The camp will be an opportunity to gain insight into issues behind increasing militarization, the spreading of military culture, and grassroots organizations’ response through non-violent resistance. Youth from Pax Christi Member Organisations are warmly invited to participate. For further information, e-mail Giulia Falgari.

Refraining from the Purchase of War Toys

In a letter to the editor of a New York weekly Catholic newspaper, Pax Christi groups in New York shared their desire to encourage others to refrain from purchasing toys that promote violence and conflict this Christmas. Many video games work to glamorise violence, encourage discrimination, and make killing exciting. This holiday season, however, one should make a conscious effort to give gifts encouraging peace and understanding. The full letter is available in English. ■

PEACE SPIRITUALITY

100 Days of Peace Legacy Hand Over to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Pax Christi UK reported on the closing Mass for the 100 Days of Peace Legacy - handing over the idea of Olympic Truce/Peace to the Brazilian community for 2016. The Pax Christi International ICON was prominent during the Mass and in the hand-over and a framed copy was given to Bishop Luis Henrique from Rio de Janeiro. You can read more on Pax Christi UK's website. ■

Peace Pilgrimage Northern Ireland

Pax Christi Germany (Würzburg) is planning a peace pilgrimage to Northern Ireland from 20 – 29 May 2013. Participants will be confronted with the recent history of conflict, the troubles in Northern Ireland since the seventies, the different steps taken by people towards a peace process for Northern Ireland and what has been the role of the Churches in that process. Subscription deadline to participate in the pilgrimage is 1 February 2013. For more information, please send an e-mail. ■

Interfaith Event to support “Water Campaign” and “the Rights of all Children to live without Violence”

On the 19 November 2012, Religions for Peace and the Global Network of Religions for Children in Europe (GNRC), held an European Interfaith Event on the “Water Campaign” and “the rights of all children to live without violence” in the premises of the European Commission. The celebration was an opportunity to reiterate the importance of water as a source of life and the ways children's rights are affected when it is not available. Using an interfaith and intercultural approach, children, women, religious leaders and the representative of UNICEF at the European Union shared their reflections on the two subjects through panel discussions and performances. Elisa Gurreri and Kathryn Shaner of the Pax Christi International Secretariat attended this event. ■
